Mr. Hogan

In recognition of your twenty-eight years of dedicated service to the Stoneham School System, and your fourteen years of guidance as the Superintendent of Schools, we, the class of 1984, would like to present you with this yearbook as a parting gift in the hope that it will serve to be a lasting reminder of your experiences in the Stoneham School System.

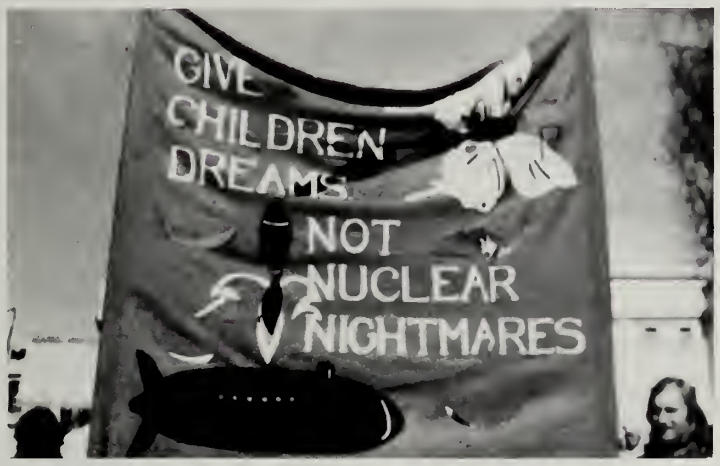
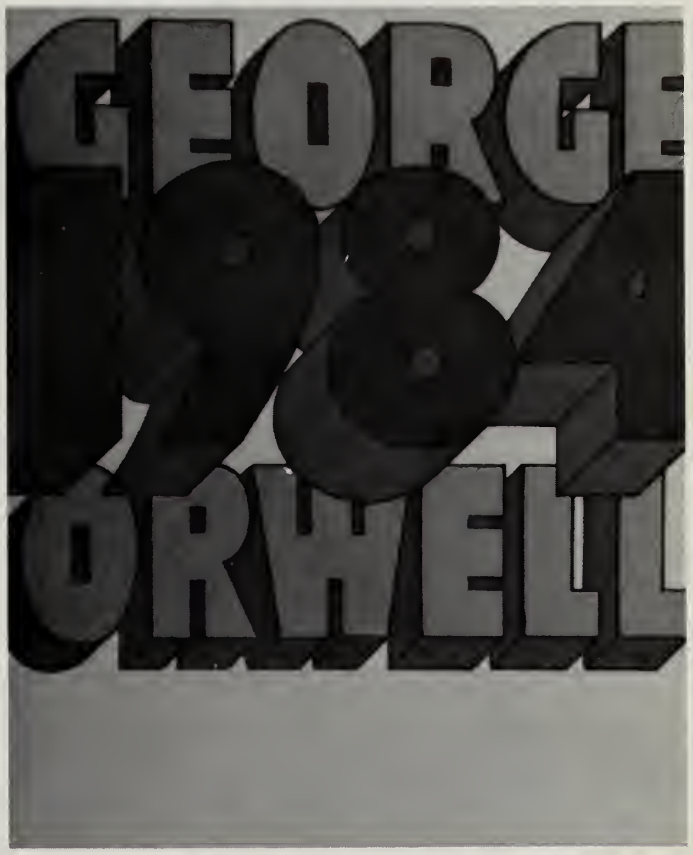
A landmark of Stoneham, the Traffic Box in the Square, was knocked over in a car accident. The Stoneham Independent, along with many Stoneham citizens, petitioned unsuccessfully for its restoration. The Russian government finally accepted responsibility for the downing of a Korean passenger jet earlier this year. After 22 years, 3000 hits, and 400 home runs, Captain Carl Yastrzemski, known to avid Red Sox fans as "Yaz", retired. Ronald Reagan visited Boston in the fall of 1983 and stopped off at the Erie Pub for a beer with some proper Bostonians.

WE ARE MERELY PLAYERS





After more than twenty years of devoted service to the Stoneham School System, Daniel W. Hogan, Superintendent of Schools, retires. 1984 found the United States sending troops into Grenada and Beirut, an action which caused much dissension throughout the world. Thousands of people around the world demonstrated for nuclear disarmament while America and Russia spent billions of dollars on the development of new weapons. George Orwell's 1984, a futuristic novel about a society without individuality, created wide-spread anxiety as well as record breaking sales.

SPECIAL GUEST STARS

Marius Carstensen
Elisa Mas
Pekka Tamminen

This year at Stoneham High School we had three foreign exchange students joining our cast. The influx of cultural influence wasn't overwhelming, but in taking time to talk to our "guest stars", it is apparent that they have a lot to add to our senior year.

Pekka Tamminen from Helsinki, Finland, Marius Carstensen from Schleswig, Germany and Elisa Mas from Barcelona, Spain, have all added to our senior experience in their own way. Some of their opinions about the United States are the same, some of their feelings about their stays here are different, but each is worth listening to and can provide insight into our own culture as well as theirs.

All three seem to feel the same about school. They're used to a less structured system, and enjoy more freedom at home. The breaks between classes are up to a half an hour long, and all the students stay in one room together while the teachers move from class to class. School seems to have more of a social atmosphere in the United States, with more of a concern for talking with friends and making plans for the weekend. Marius and Elisa both explained that people don't dress up at all for school, they just go there to learn.

They all commented on how friendly and nice the people are and it was mentioned that other countries don't like foreigners and aren't very cordial to them. They were also impressed with the fact that we are eligible for a driver's license at 16½.

Pekka doesn't like the rush between classes and some of the silly T.V. programs. Elisa also dislikes T.V., the disruptive times at which we eat, and some foods such as pickles and ketchup. Marius, at 19, finds the great age differences in high school students difficult, and has a hard time relating to the younger students.

All of the students came here to better understand the American people and use the English language. There has been a noticeable improvement in their communication skills already. Pekka was expecting his year here to be more of a vacation, and has found it to be just like normal life. Marius expected his free time to be much like it was at home in Germany-spent with his friends; but he finds he is not doing as many things as he would like to. Elisa thought high school was going to be like it is portayed in the movies. "Some things are different," she says, "but some are the same."

When asked how they liked Stoneham, the answers were very different. Pekka likes having so many things, like restaurants and the movies, right here in town. He says it's good that everything is practically in walking distance, but to get anywhere, outside of Stoneham he finds our transporataion system inferior to that of Helsinki.

Marius finds Stoneham rather boring and is used to a great deal more action in his home town. "There's always people doing things in stores, in the streets, wherever you go." He spends his time in Germany out with his friends and at clubs having a good time. Elisa likes the city better, and makes frequent trips to Boston. You can find her at lively Harvard Square poking around Urban Outfitters or at Quincy Market, or the Nickelodeon. She, like Pekka, feels that transportation is easier in her native country; cabs are cheaper, buses more accessible. Still she manages to eliminate boredom by going to parties and dances.

Family life in the United States is different to each of our guest stars as well. Pekka feels that families in Finland are as close as those in the United States, while Elisa feels the same, she also thinks families spend more time together here. Marius thinks American families are closer and spend a great deal more time with each other than German families. Pekka, Marius and Elisa all agree that young people here and in their own countries have the same motivations, problems, conflicts and worries. One worry they don't have, however is how they will pay for school. Universities are free and all you have to pay for in Finland is room and board. Marius said that the state can provide as much as $300-400 dollars a month towards living in your own apartment and attending school. Elisa feels that with the pressure of college expenses and having to work to finance themselves, Americans grow up faster.

We hope that Pekka, Marius and Elisa have enjoyed their stay in the states, and learned as much from their experience as we have learned from them.

"I hope that I have made people in the United States understand that things that people do in other countries are not done the wrong way. There's no 'wrong' way only different ways"

Pekka Tamminen

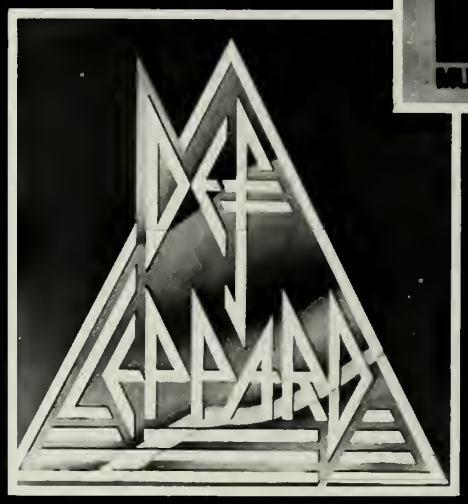
"America is fun and a nice place to visit, but come to Spain and you will discover another way of having fun. Everyone is invited to visit me in Barcelona."

Elisa Mas

"I'm not sure Americans understand the West Germans because they don't live in such a situation. Germany is split and now they (Americans) want to station several hundred nuclear weapons there. I am afraid. I want Americans to reconsider putting the weapons there. Many Germans hate the American soldier because they do not want him there."

Marius Carstensen

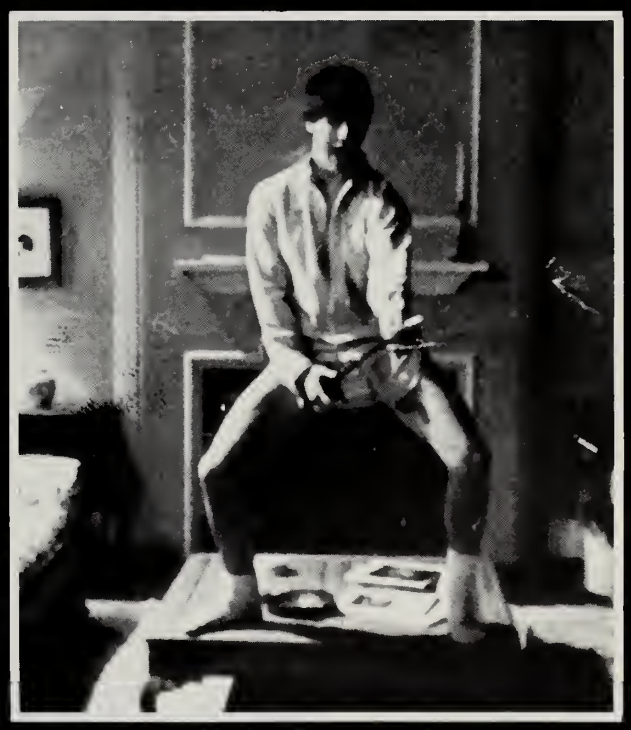
SOUND OF MUSIC



Selling over 25 million copies of "Thriller" and setting a record of 8 grammys in the same year (in Pop, Rock, R&B, etc.), Michael Jackson is truly a "superstar" of 1984. The success of the Police in the past years grew even more (this year) with the popularity of their final album "Synchronicity". In the past two years, videos have rejuvenated the crumbling record industry. The influence of MTV, the only video music channel, on music in general has been phenomenal- - -while millions watched on. Def Leppard proved that heavy metal can still survive with their smash album "Pyromania". David Bowie surprised the Music world with "Let's Dance", an album that displayed his widely varied talent.

COSTUMES AND CHARACTERS

With "adoption papers", and individual faces and names, the Cabbage Patch Kids were in high demand with the public despite their high cost. Flashdance brought the dance craze into full swing and introduced a new style of clothing for American youth. Flashdance may have changed our clothes and dance styles, but Risky Business affected our attitudes. Remember-Sometimes you have to say "What the . . ." The computer revolution was felt by people of all ages and professions.



WINNING . . .

After last year's finish as co-champs of the North Shore League, the eight returning varsity players could only make improvements on their 1982 season. By strengthening their already impenetrable defense and fine-tuning their offense, the team dominated the league, disposing of their opponents easily. Only Arlington, in the second meeting of the two teams, was able to squeak past Stoneham. The loss, however, was overshadowed by Stoneham's comfortable presence at the top of the league.

Now that sole possession of first place was theirs, the Spartans moved on to the State Tournament. Their first real challenge came in the quarter-finals of the North Sectionals against Boston Latin, with 1983 Player of the Year, Ginny Tom. Despite a strong effort by Boston Latin, Stoneham swept the match and moved on to the semi-finals. Stoneham met and defeated Chelmsford, taking three straight games, and advanced to the North Sectional Finals.

The Spartans put to rest any doubt that they were the best in the north by trouncing Arlington in three of four games, and seizing the North Sectional Title.

In the finals of the Northeast Sectionals, Stoneham faced the 1982 State Champions from Quincy. Though Quincy possessed a reputedly potent offense, the Spartan defense held them in check, anticipating most of Quincy's shots. Stoneham took three out of five, and moved on to the State Finals.

Because of an M.I.A.A. rule which states that if a school sponsors only one team in a sport, it must allow both boys and girls to play, the Amherst team, Stoneham's opponent in the State Finals, consisted of more boys than girls. The Spartans played hard, but were simply overpowered, dropping three straight games. Despite all the controversy over this final match, Stoneham is still regarded by most as the finest girls' volleyball team in Massachusetts.

. . . A NEW TRADITION

The 1983 Stoneham High Football Team earned themselves a special place in the history of Stoneham High athletics. As the Boston Globe stated, "The last time Stoneham had won a football game Jimmy Carter was still president and Carl Yastrzemski just recorded his 3000th hit. It was November 4, 1979 and 35 games since it won a game." In their fourth game of the season, however, the Spartans snapped this streak, shutting out Lexington, 14 to 0. And the evening which followed saw a town-wide party previously unequalled.

The Spartans were not satisfied with this one victory, though. Their ability to win in the Middlesex League had been realized, and the players had three winless seasons to make up for. After disappointing losses to Concord Carlisle, Watertown, Burlington, and Melrose, the players were hungry for a win. The seniors were especially hungry, not only because it was their last year of high school football, but also silenced statements that suggested Stoneham did not belong in the Middlesex League. As freshmen, these seniors were league champions, but as they moved into varsity play, they saw only losing, and they did not like it. After the victory over Lexington, they experienced a feeling of joy they had not felt since they were freshmen, and they wanted more.

A week later, a banged up and tired Spartan team lost to Belmont, then tied for first place with Watertown. As the opinion that the Lexington game may have been a fluke appeared to be spreading, the players set out to prove to the fans, the rest of the league, and themselves that they were winners. In the weeks that followed, all doubt was silenced.

The next to fall to Stoneham was the Woburn Tanners, whom the Spartans rolled over, 23 to 12. This victory fueled Stoneham's fire, and inspired in "Spartan Spirit" which spread throughout the high school, as well as the rest of the town. With renewed belief in themselves, the Spartans continued to roll, downing Wakefield 15 to 6, then Winchester, 20 to 8. Much of the offensive success of the team is due to the outstanding play of the offensive line, affectionately known as the "hogs." The tenacity of the defense had also gained the respect of the league.

Although the Spartans lost a tough Turkey Day game to a strong Reading team, 13 to 6, they were proud of their success, and the fan support they had inspired for the football program.

As sources of leadership, instruction, and individual support, the coaching staff was second to none. They are head coach Tom Kasprzak, defensive coordinator Dick Burnham, line coach and "head hog" Al Lanni, and receiver and strength coach Bob Powers.

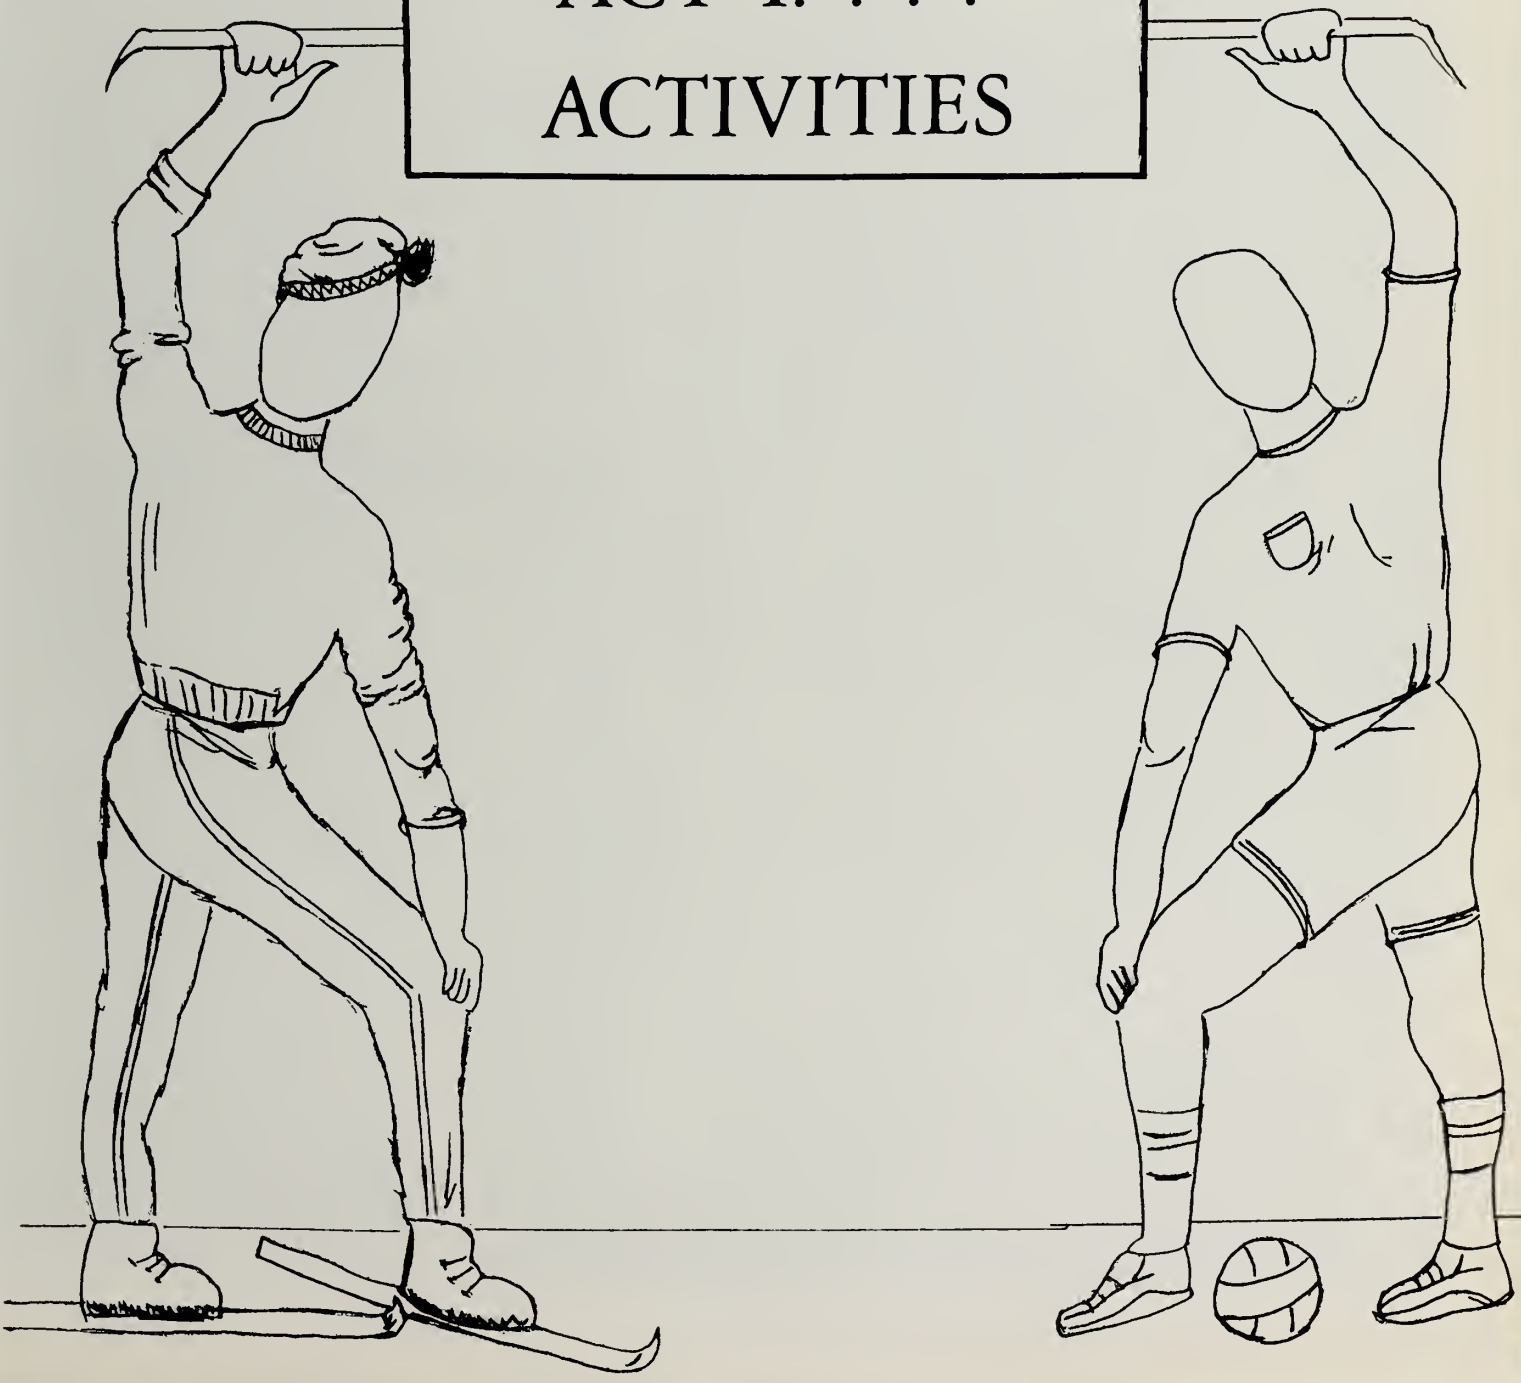
ACTIVITIES



THE JUNIOR PROM:

The scene for the Junior Prom was set at the Palace in Saugus. Matt Siegel of KISS 108 added to the uniqueness of the night by chosing our prom as the stage for his premiere performance as a prom D.J. The Junior Class officers gave much of their time and enthusiasm to make the prom a success. They truly deserve a standing ovation for producing an event which has given our class many special memories to treasure.

JUST YOU AND I

FALL

Fall Coming began on a positive note with a parade in which all four classes participated. The festivities, however, did not end with the conclusion of the parade; they had only just begun. Throughout the day both students and faculty were involved in many humorous events, such as the pie throwing and eating contests.

COMING

Unfortunately the football team's performance was disappointing to the enthusiastic spectators who sat hopeful in the pouring rain. But in spite of the depressing atmosphere created by the loss, fans were able to lift their spirits by attending the Senior Class dance which featured "The Lobsters". All in all, the day was enjoyed by all who participated.

PEP RALLY

Preceding Thanksgiving the school provided time for the student body to get psyched for the events of the next day. Students streamed into the gym, piled on the bleachers and enthusiastically screamed cheers of support. The cheerleaders led the event while the band played energetic songs, the color guard displayed their talent and the majorettes skillfully performed their routine. Lance Hult and Buddy Rolli, co-captains of the football team, thanked the fans for their ongoing support and commended the team for a positive season. Adding to the pride of Stoneham High School, the Eastern Massachusetts Volleyball State Champions presented Mr. Hoyt with their many awards and trophies. Another event of the rally was the traditional Turkey Beauty Contest whose participants were few in number but exquisite in style. All in all, the rally went well, giving the students the opportunity to show class spirit and give support to our teams and other school related groups.

COCKTAILS WITH MIMI

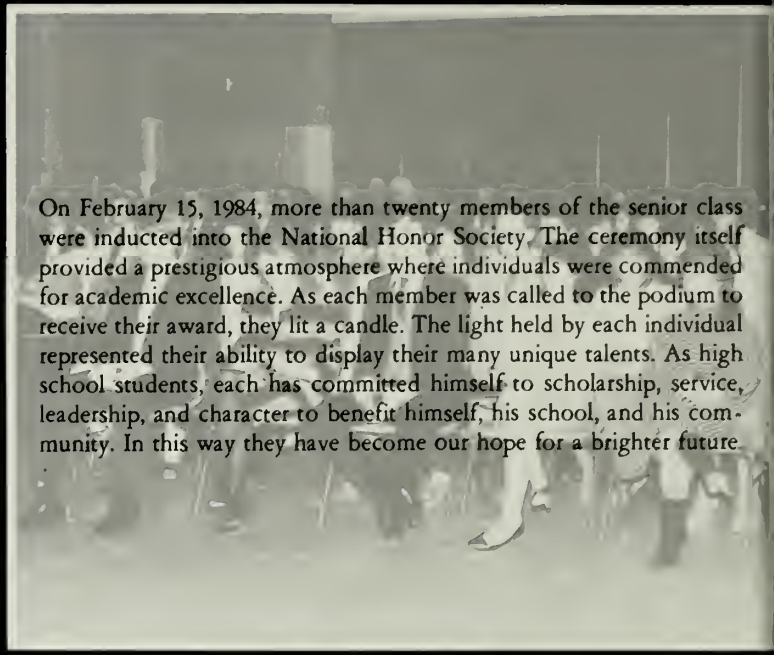
NHS HOLDS CANDLELIGHT



On February 15, 1984, more than twenty members of the senior class were inducted into the National Honor Society. The ceremony itself provided a prestigious atmosphere where individuals were commended for academic excellence. As each member was called to the podium to receive their award, they lit a candle. The light held by each individual represented their ability to display their many unique talents. As high school students, each has committed himself to scholarship, service, leadership, and character to benefit himself, his school, and his community. In this way they have become our hope for a brighter future.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Student Council is the backbone of the high school. The creativity and dedication of its members led to an exciting new Carnival Ball this year. Their efforts to make high school life exciting is becoming more successful every year.

SADD

The SHS SADD (Students Against Driving Drunk) Chapter began on April 4, 1983. Stoneham is only one high school of thousands that have begun the program. In the past year SADD has become nationwide. The organization's main concern is to increase high school students' awareness of drunk driving, a problem which has become the No. 1 killer of teenagers.

SPARTAN CHORALE

The Spartan Chorale is the premier chorale performing organization at Stoneham High School. It presents an ideal opportunity for choral music for any student, regardless of previous experience. In recent years, performances of the Spartan Chorale have included concerts in the President's Park at the White House, Symphony Hall, Boston, and the annual tree lighting ceremony at the Prudential Center.

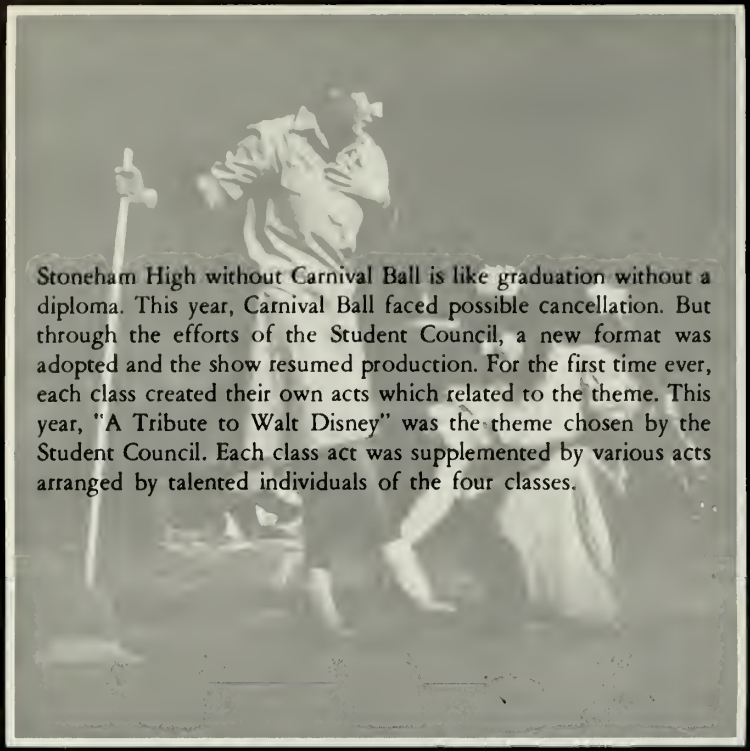
DRAMA CLUB

Each year guided by the imaginative directing of Mr. Paul Mucica, the Drama Club displays the theatrical abilities of the high school students. As a result, Stoneham High gains full appreciation of the theatre arts while enjoying an excellent performance.

REPERTORY CHORUS

The Repertory Chorus is the smaller version of the Spartan Chorale, and is offered to students as a minor subject. Although they do not tour, the Repertory Chorus members join the Chorale at many of the performances including the annual Carnival Ball.

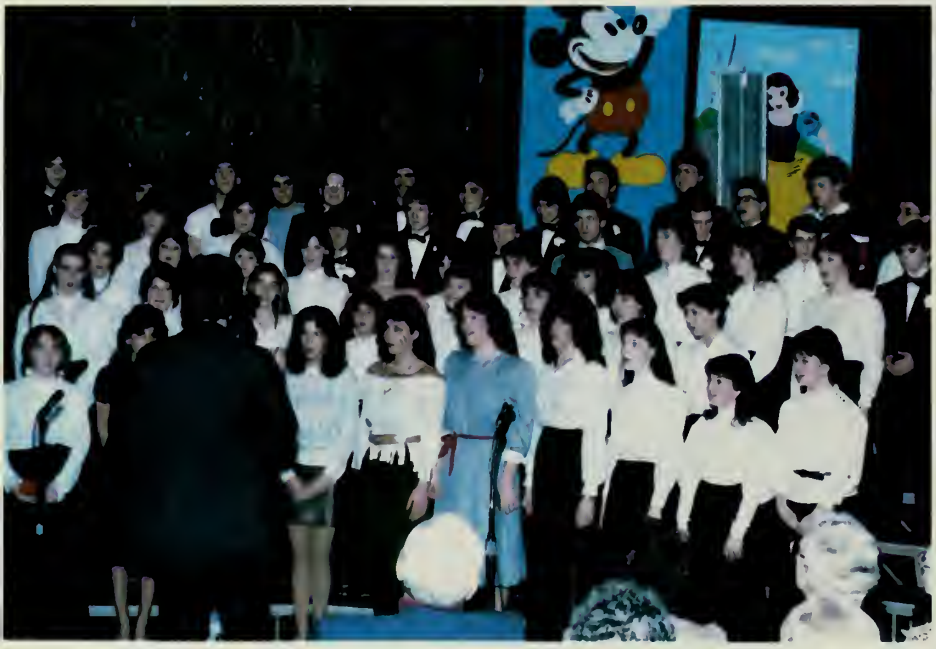
TRIBUTE TO DISNEY



Stoneham High without Carnival Ball is like graduation without a diploma. This year, Carnival Ball faced possible cancellation. But through the efforts of the Student Council, a new format was adopted and the show resumed production. For the first time ever, each class created their own acts which related to the theme. This year, "A Tribute to Walt Disney" was the theme chosen by the Student Council. Each class act was supplemented by various acts arranged by talented individuals of the four classes.

Like the talents of Walt Disney, David Power's talents are used for the entertainment of others. Two of David's musical compositions, "Everything I Wanted Is You" and "As I Think of You", were performed during the show.

Counterclockwise—The Junior Class Act featured Gary Pettway as "The Funky Tinkerbell"; Paul Woodland dancing in "The Daffy Duck Countdown"; The entertaining Mistresses of Ceremonies—Lisa Galuna and Andrea Howard; Detour, featuring Todd DellaPorta and Frank Melanson, performing their rendition of J. Geils' "I Do".



WHAT DO YOU DO IN YOUR SPARE TIME?

ALPENHOF SKI CLUB

For many students, Mr. Howard Dimmick and the Alpenhof Ski Club have been a very important aspect of their high school years. Students involved in the Ski Club go on weekend ski trips, hold dances, banquets, and even go on week long ski trips.

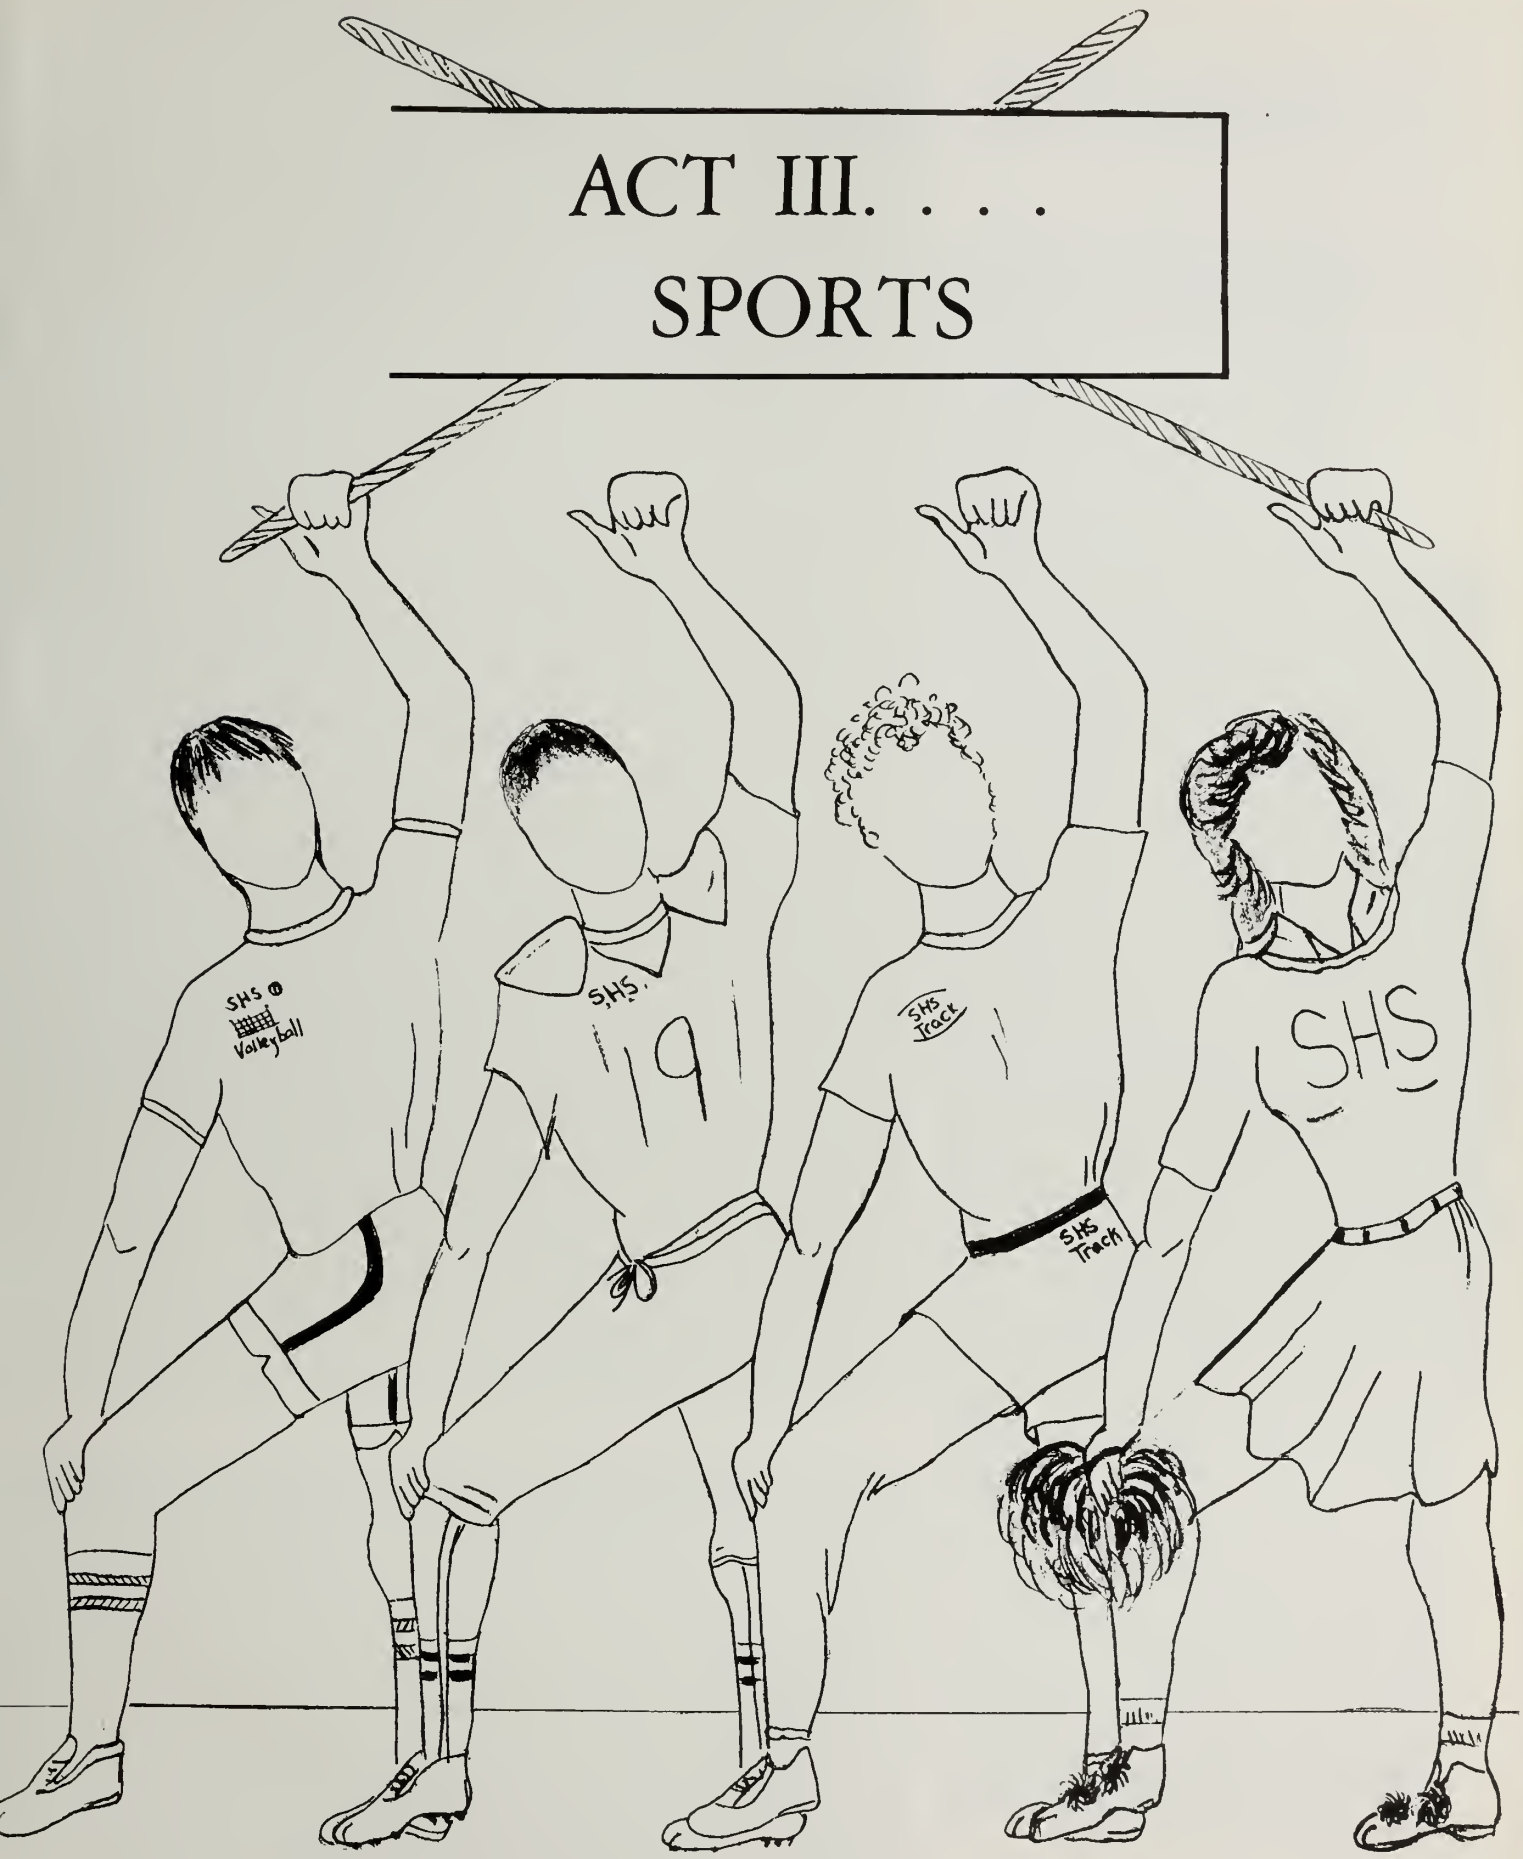
TRAVEL CLUB

As the student body looks to April anticipating the much needed vacation, the travel club basks in the warm visions of their upcoming trip to Bermuda. Every year members of the travel club are fortunate enough to leave the monotony of Stoneham and find fun and excitement in beautiful Bermuda. Any room for stowaways?

CHESS CLUB

Under the supervision of Mr. Kevin Conroy and president Ron Bassil these intelligent young men sharpen their mental skills with the challenging game of chess.

ACT III. . . .
SPORTS



BLUE

A new tradition was established this year in Spartan athletics— success. Much of this success may be attributed to some outstanding performances by some talented individuals. Although winning is always a team effort, successful teams all have individuals who excel at their positions. Nowhere are these talented athletes more plentiful than on the Varsity Volleyball team.

CHAMPS

This year's volleyball roster read like a North Shore League All-Star Game program. Each of the Stoneham volleyballers was qualified for all-star status, but fair representation of the other teams in the league made such a large Spartan delegation impossible. The Girl's State Champions are, two-time Boston Globe All Scholastic Jeanine Smallcomb, Globe All Scholastic Diana Doucette, All Star Jean Fallon, League All Star Meg Gebhard, League All Star Maura Doran, League All Star Hillary Anderson, Debbie O'Rielly, Stacy Doyle, Lisa Galuna, Alonza Jackson, Becky Wells, and Lillian LaRosa.

Coach James Carino

The Spartan Soccer team started off their season with a bang, shutting out their first three opponents, 1-0. They were abruptly brought back to earth, however, dropping their next three matches. The new Spartan trademark seems to be their defense, which commanded the respect of all this season's opponents. This solid defense, anchored by All-League goalie Howie Porter, assisted by League All Star Darren Weisse, and Honorably Mentioned Joe O'Melia and Paul Baker, often took up the slack of the less-then-potent offense. Thus, in every Spartan victory, the defense shut the opponent out, and protected the one point leads the offense provided. In his second season, Coach Ed Russo has continued to build a program which has begun to pay dividends. This year's record of 7-10-1 is the best in recent memory. Congratulations, players and coaches.

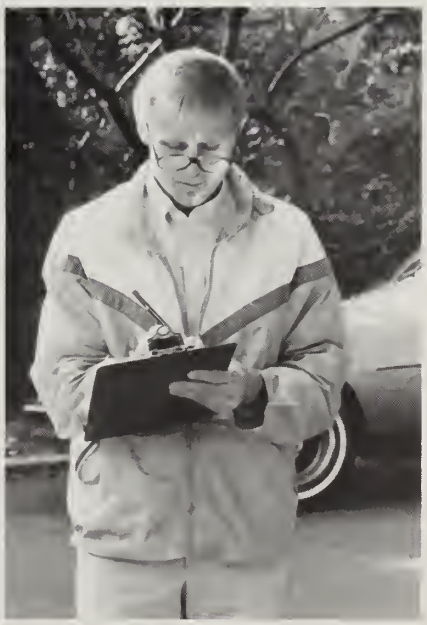
The Spartan Harriers, led by second-year captains Jane Hugo and Mike Trevor, worked feverishly this season to show the rest of the highly competitive Middlesex League that they were truly winners. This would be no easy task coming off of a winless season last year. Even in the early season, the closest this young team (3 Seniors) could come to a win was a heartbreaking loss to Watertown. This disappointing loss, however, seemed to inspire the team. With new-found self-confidence, they followed with back-to-back wins over Burlington and Everett. After dropping two more meets to Melrose and powerful Lexington, the Spartans cruised past Belmont for their third victory of the season. Spartans earning post-season honors were: Kristen Seabury (Freshman)-All Scholastic; Capt. Jane Hugo-League All Star; Capt. Mike Trevor, Mike Tatian, Cathy Ricupero- League All Star Honorable Mentions.



FIELD HOCKEY

The Spartan Field Hockey team started their season with a burst of energy, winning three of their first four games, and tying the remaining one. Though their tight defense proved successful against these teams, the streak was only temporary, for the Spartans suffered a disappointing loss to undefeated Woburn. The Spartans, led by captains Suzanne Simpson and Lori Maffeo, compiled an overall record of 5-8-5. Elected this season as All-Star for the Middlesex League was Junior Diana Uva, who was chosen for her superior defensive ability.

GIRL'S BASKETBALL

"H-U-S-T-L-E . . ." No one word describes the play of this year's girls' basketball team better than "hustle." And, more often than not, their hustling resulted in victory. The girls finished second in the Middlesex League, behind Lexington, but their 17-3 record qualified them for the Division II State Tournament.

In the Quarter-finals, Stoneham faced the Dual County League Champions, Lincoln Sudbury. Although Lincoln Sudbury possessed a notable advantage in size, lead by a 6 foot 2 inch, 180 pound center, Stoneham was not intimidated. They outhustled Lincoln Sudbury for four periods, and advanced to the Semi-finals, with a 42-34 victory, to face North Andover. In the Semi-finals, sharp-shooting by North Andover and questionable officiating ended the Spartans' season with a hard fought loss.

This year's All-Star selections were senior center/forward Jeanine Smallcomb, senior guard Meg Gebhard, and sophomore forward Lisa Powers.

BOY'S BASKETBALL

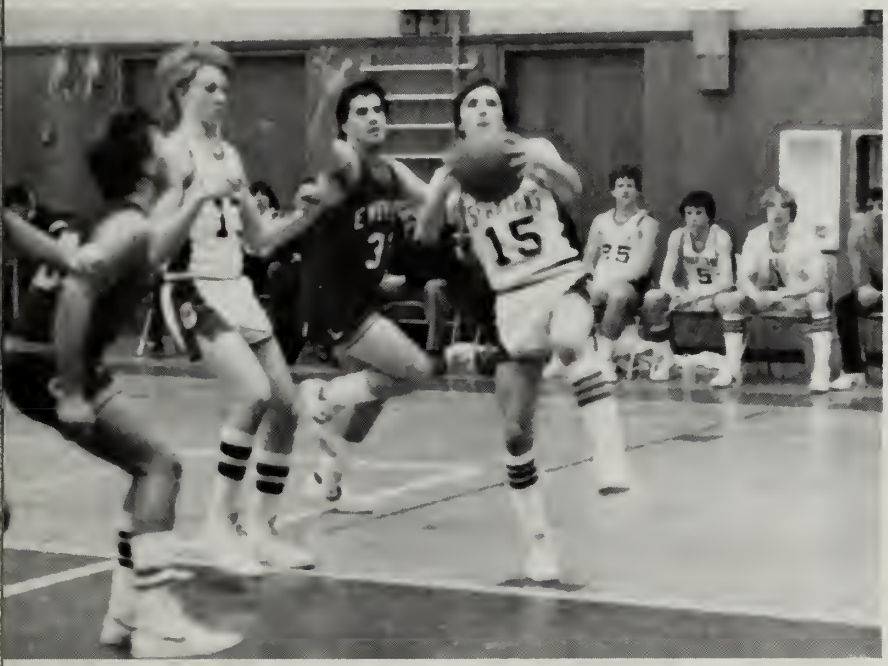
For the Spartan boys' basketball, this year's season was a difficult one for both players and coaches. A new head coach, Paul Furlong, brought a new style of team play to the team, and hope for a successful season. Luck, however, would have no hand in the resurgence of the Spartans. Injuries hurt the team throughout the season. In the league opener against Lexington, Darren Weisse was seriously injured, after colliding with, and shattering a gym office window. Perry Reis, Rich Palumbo, Peter Fabiano, and Scott Baron also spent time on the injured reserve. Though they failed to win a game, the Spartans had noticeably improved by the end of the season, which was reflected in several very close games at the close of the season. Because of his team leadership and excellent defensive play, Duane Weisse was selected to the North Squad of the Middlesex League All Star Team. If the Spartans' luck improves next year, they will surely taste victory more than once.



HOCKEY

From the first day the hockey team skated out on the ice for practice, Coach Burnham knew that they were going to have to work hard to qualify for the State Tournament. The long hours of pre-season practice paid off for the team as they started the season with three straight victories. The Spartans continued to play well, finishing strong in the first half of the season with a 6 and 3 record. The Spartans were not as successful in the second half, largely due to the loss of All-League wing Doug Titcomb to a shoulder injury. Because of Stoneham's disappointing performance in the second half, the team failed to qualify for the State Tournament. A glimmer of hope for the future was the strong performance of some talented underclassmen, showing that the future of Spartan hockey is in good hands.

WINTER CHEERLEADING

GYMNASTICS

This season proved to be very successful for our gymnastics team. This strong and enthusiastic group finished 4th in the Middlesex League, an unprecedented achievement in Stoneham gymnastics. Such a feat would not have been possible without the leadership of captains Traci Bornstein and Natalie Greenwood and senior Lynda Norman. Traci was rewarded for her hard work by being selected as a Middlesex League All-Star. The success of this year's team is sure to set a precedent of excellence for the future.

THE CAST:

"I thought I was going to lead this dance."

The latest from Pearl Vision Center.

"Scott, how do you spell relief?"

We hate to tell you Amy, but it's the way you dress.

The Stoneham High pit crew at its best.

Mark and Maria are glad they're not eating the school lunch.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT

"We fixed this transmission 16, no, 17 times!"

Good thing that finger isn't loaded.

"Hey Bruce, here comes Mr. Rowell."

Nick never talks with his mouth full.

Who said that opposites don't attract?

"Wait a sec, I'm a senior in a class full of freshmen."
